Education

- Ph.D. in Computer Science (2012-2016)
Harvard University, Cambridge, MA
Dissertation: "Advanced Algorithms in Distributed Computing Systems."
- Master of Science in Applied Sciences (2019-2021)
California Institute of Technology (Caltech), Pasadena, CA
Focus on Software Development and Systems Engineering.
Dissertation: "Modern Approaches to System-Level Programming."
- Bachelor of Science in Physics (2012-2016)
University of Chicago, Chicago, IL
Focus on Computational Physics.

Professional Experience

- Lead Software Engineer, Microsoft, Redmond, WA (2016-Present)
  - Oversaw complex software development projects, leading teams to innovate and optimize software solutions.
  - Pioneered the development of new distributed computing platforms, enhancing performance and scalability.
  - Conducted extensive research and development in network software and operating systems.
- Research Fellow, Harvard University (2012-2016)
  - Engaged in cutting-edge research on distributed systems and high-performance computing.
  - Published several papers in top-tier computer science journals.

Skills

- Programming Languages: Advanced in C++, C#, Java.
- Development Tools: Proficient with Subversion, GIT, advanced code editors.
- Systems: Expert in Linux, UNIX, system architecture.

- Technologies: Specialized in distributed systems, high-performance computing, data analysis.
